LONDON OFFICE: 31, FLEET STREET, E.C.

HONGKONG, 17th April, 1903.

Dr. Ho Kai's lengthy defence of the Chinese Petition for the extension of Sir Henry Blake's term of office as Governor of the Colony does credit to his industry as well as to his ingenuity. But we should like to point out that no one has questioned the fact that His Excellency's administration has been greatly appreciated and admired by the Chinese community. It is only when the petitioners come to enumerate the acts which have marked His Excellency's administration that criticism is provoked. Dr. Ho Kai seems in his reply to have missed the point—that the criticism is largely excited by the fact that personal credit is given to His Excellency for philanthropic, educational, sanitary and other improvements when it by no means necessarily follows that because all these things have been accomplished during His Excellency's term of office the honour and the glory thereof belong essentially to him. We differ entirely from the view expressed by Dr. Ho Kai that it is immaterial whether the measures were initiated by His Excellency or whether they had been pressed upon him by local organisations or popular agitation. The answer to our comments with regard to the failure to collect Crown rents in the New Territory constitutes one of the weakest, laziest excuses conceivable. These rents in disputed cases cannot be collected "on account," as His Excellency in August, 1900, said they would be, because of the "extreme reluctance" on the part of the owners and occupiers of land to pay rent before their claims had been demarcated, investigated, and allowed by the Land Court. Dr. Ho Kai further explains that in order to distract for rent the Government "must have a rent roll and must be able to identify by map each plot of land on the rent roll." The alleged owners surely have a clear idea of the limits of each plot which they claim belongs to them and to abandon the considerable revenue which ought to be derived from this source on such flimsy pretexts is a confession of extraordinary weakness.

Nearly one column and a half is occupied in defence of the paragraph in the Petition in which it is claimed that the police measures adopted have tended to preserve the peace and good order of the Colony in a manner "the most effective and unsurpassed." We asked how this could be reconciled with the statement in the latest police returns showing that during the past five years the increase in "serious offences" in the Colony has been 30 per cent. compared with the figures for the previous five years. Dr. Ho Kai answers that in that time the native population has increased 64 per cent., which is a very good point to make, as the increase in the Police Force has not been in the same proportion. Doubtless, if detection of crime was more certain than it is now, the police returns would show a more favourable tendency, and the community will be pleased to learn through Dr. Ho Kai that a detective branch is to be soon added to the district watchmen force, which is maintained by the voluntary contributions of Chinese ratepayers. We are indebted to Dr. Ho Kai for the light he has been able to throw on the causes of the delay in the provision of those public buildings and certain administrative reforms which have so long been promised, and we trust that at the end of another five years it will not be our unpleasant duty to again refer to them as unaccomplished items in the list of improvements.

For a long time past, in fact almost ever since the return of the EMPRESS and EMPRESS DOWAGER to Peking, there have been continuous rumours of unrest in the far north-west of the Chinese Empire. Prince Tuan and General Tung Fu-hsiang are the personages around whom the stories of plots and machinations gather, and their movements appear to be followed with a more or less languid interest by foreigners, and with real or feigned alarm by the Peking officials. So far, it is true, neither of these doughty leaders has accomplished anything beyond some brag and bounce, with which, rightly or wrongly, they are credited. But their presence in Kansu and Shensi serves at any rate to inspire uneasiness at Court in Peking and to give rise to a crop of reports—few of which, probably contain more than the merest grain of truth. The latest rumour comes from Northern Hupeh, and is to the effect that Prince Tuan and his fellow conspirator Tung Fu-hsiang have sent an ultimatum to the EMPRESS DOWAGER calling upon her to carry out formally what she virtually accomplished years ago, namely, the deposition of the Emperor Kwang Hsu, and to put the discredited heir apparent, Pu Chun, son of Prince Tuan, on the Dragon Throne in His Majesty's place. The consequences of a refusal to comply with this request are stated briefly as the loss of the provinces of Kansu and Shensi, which the conspirators at the same time threaten to erect into a separate empire, with Hsian-fu as its capital.

A correspondent of our Shanghai morning contemporary, writing from Fancheng, on the Han river, in Hupeh, asserts that a large number of Hunanese soldiers, who had come up from Wu-chang in boats, arrived at Fancheng on the 12th ultimo bound for Hsian-fu. As it is very unusual for troops from Hunan to be sent north to Shensi in time of peace, our contemporary is inclined to connect this movement with the alleged demand by the disaffected Chinese insurgent leaders for the deposition of the EMPRESS. It is also of opinion that the EMPRESS DOWAGER is suffering from fears that Prince Tuan and his colleague are really potential enough to work mischief in the north-western corner of the Empire if not to organise a descent in force on Peking. No doubt the Hunanese troops, who are believed to be loyal to the dynasty, are also being sent to Hsian-fu with directions to garrison that city and to stiffen the backs of the officials there or supersede them if necessary. It does not follow, however, that they will be allowed to reach the capital of Shensi. Tung Fu-hsiang's troops may intercept them, and the chance of this may explain the EMPRESS DOWAGER's uneasiness. The old lady appears to be now between Scylla and Charybdis. On the one hand she dreads the reformers whose hope was in the Emperor Kwang Hsu, and on the other she fears the reactionaries who are represented by the fugitive Prince Tuan and the disgraced General Tung. What will be the upshot of all the unrest, disaffection, and anti-foreign feeling which are now rampant in North China it is hard to predict. The pessimists there are who confidently predict a fresh and more formidable rising than the one which rendered the closing year of the nineteenth century so sadly memorable, but we hope that the lesson then read to the Boxer leaders and the anti-foreign officials was sufficient to act as a deterrent to violence and outrage at any rate for some decades, long enough perhaps to inaugurate a healthier feeling and more friendly relations with the foreigner. It is, however, well to continue precautions, and the Legation guards in Peking will obviously have to remain an institution for many years to come. It would never do for the Treaty Powers to relax their precautions or to accept the bland assurances of the Tsung-li Yamen that all danger is past and violence would never be meditated again by a Chinese mob. Neither will it do for the EMPRESS DOWAGER to discuss terms with the outlawed leaders. Both Prince Tuan and General Tung were among the foremost advocates of the campaign against foreigners, and had they been able to work their will would undoubtedly have carried out a policy of extermination. If there is any coquetting by the EMPRESS DOWAGER or the Tsung-li Yamen with these arch-enemies of the Western Powers, there is bound to be serious trouble, and, at the least, it will lead to new complications with foreigners ending possibly with a fresh and greater war.

According to estimates published in Japanese papers, Russia has between 40,000 and 50,000 troops in Manchuria.

The Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., has declared an interim bonus of 20 per cent. upon contributions for the year 1902.

The plague return for the 24 hours ended at noon on the 15th inst. showed seven new cases (all Chinese) bringing the total for the year up to 237.

The Government of Indo-China has declared Hongkong to be infected with bubonic plague, and Asiatic immigration, &c., from Hongkong is prohibited.

Gua practice will be carried out from Stonecutters' Island and Belcher's on 21st and 22nd inst. at targets in a W. and S.W. direction from Stonecutters' and a N.W. and W. direction from Belcher's.

The S.S. Chukong will leave her usual wharf, Praya West, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday next at 9 a.m. each day on an excursion to the great Temples of Heaven and Bazaar at Shekwan, returning at 3 p.m. and arriving here about 5.30.

Twelve cases of bubonic plague were notified during the 24 hours ended at noon yesterday. Of these nine proved fatal, the victims all being Chinese. An Indian and two other Chinese supplied the three remaining cases. The total for the year is now 240.

Sir William Goodma, the Chief Justice, will leave for Japan on the 22nd inst. on a two-months' holiday. During his absence, Sir Henry S. Berkeley, Attorney-General, will act as Chief Justice and Mr. E. Sharp, K.C., will fill the position of Attorney-General.

Dismissed from his employment in the printing office of Messrs. Kelly & Walshe, a Chinaman threatened the native foreman that he would "Pay him out" for the part he had played to secure the dismissal. Later on, the two met in the street, and the foreman was set upon by the other and thrashed. The sequel was Police Court proceedings and a fine of $1 for the pugilistic one, who was further bound over in the sum of $25 to keep the peace for three months.

Centenarians are fairly common nowadays, but it may be questioned whether any country can boast so many as Ceylon, which, according to the recent census returns, has no fewer than 145 inhabitants over 100 years of age. Seventy-one of these are males and seventy-four females. Of these forty-three men and fifty-two women claimed to be exactly 100, while the highest age returned was 120. The oldest person in the world, however, is not an inhabitant of Ceylon. She lives on a farm in Cape Colony, and her name is Mrs. Anna Charley. This good lady claims to have been born in 1781, so that she is now no less than 122 years of age.

THE APOLOGY FOR THE CHINESE PETITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

Hongkong 16th April.

SIR,—Referring to letter signed by Dr. Ho Kai, on the subject of the Chinese Petition for the retention of H.E. the Governor, I note that the writer refers to despatches from H.E. the Governor relating to the Black Clock Tower and the Post Office. In the last paragraph of his letter he refers to having looked over a "number of papers and official documents for confirmation of his statements." Has Dr. Ho Kai been "briefed" that he has been allowed access to official documents and despatches, which I always believed were carefully guarded from public inspection?—Yours, etc.,

THE "SIBERIA" AT HOME.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s new liner Siberia was thrown open for public inspection yesterday afternoon, and many hundreds of Hongkong residents took the opportunity of viewing the magnificent leviathan. Between two and five o'clock launches ran at short intervals from Blake Pier. On board, the visitors were treated with the utmost hospitality and Captain Tremaine Smith and his officers were assiduous in their attention upon them. For the new ship one can have nothing but admiration. As one nears her in a launch, the first thing remarkable is her enormous bulk and the height at which she stands out of the water. Once on board the visitor finds much to attract his attention. The fine promenade and hurricane decks, the luxurious cabins and state-rooms, and the general excellence and modernity of the appointments from keel to truck claim in turn the interested inspection of everyone who views the vessel. As is already pretty well known, the Siberia is a sister ship of the Korea. Her tonnage is 11,184 tons in all. Her speed is said to be about two knots more than the Korea's, and although it would be difficult to make the Korea's people admit that soft impeachment, it is a matter of fact that certain minor deficiencies in arrangement which the Korea evinced after launching have been rectified in the later vessel. Put out from the Newport News Shipbuilding Yard. In the course of the afternoon music was dispensed by the band of the 33rd Burma. It is worthy of note that during the day the Siberia was flying at the main a flag—the Company's flag—said to be the largest ever displayed in Hongkong Harbour and measuring 35 feet in length. The U.S. flag, the British flag, the American Jack and the customary burgee were also in evidence. The Siberia sails to-morrow.

THE RECENT EXPLOSION AT CANTON.

A correspondent writes from Canton:—With reference to the explosion of the Wing Chai powder magazine on the 10th inst. various explanations are suggested as to the cause. One suggestion is that it was due to the carelessness of the soldiers at the magazine; another that some of the rebels set fire to it; but the story that bears a nearer approximation to the truth is that as the Acting Viceroy Tak Sui had some information that certain weyrains had been taking charge of the magazine, he had misappropriated a large quantity of powder, and could not give an account of the same. His Excellency had ordered a weyrain, Lao Ching Tai, to go and make an examination. The latter appointed 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Friday to make the examination, and it was shortly after two p.m. (before he went there) that the disaster occurred. It is believed that one of the weyrains had set fire to it to cover his defalcation. Over a hundred casks of powder were discovered buried under the ground unburied, and they have been removed by order of the Viceroy to another magazine beyond the East gate.

DEPRESSION IN THE MANCHESTER COTTON TRADE.

Addressing the proprietors of the Manchester Royal Exchange at their annual meeting last month Mr. Duncan Matheson, the chairman of the directors, remarked that last year must rank without controversy as one of the most discouraging and unprofitable they had experienced for many years in all branches of the cotton industry. The late startling advance in cotton had given rise to great perplexity in the trade generally, and an unpleasant impression was gaining ground that when time must be adopted, and many mills may be closed as the year advanced, a prospect which filled them with grave apprehension as to the conditions of the workpeople under such distressing circumstances. Amidst the gloom and depression of the times there was, however, a hopeful and encouraging movement to look forward to, namely, the extension of cotton growing in the Colonies, in which Liverpool was heart and soul with Manchester.

THE LILLIPUTIANS AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.

PRODUCTION OF "LA MASCOITE."

More than ordinary interest attached to the production of La Mascoite by Pollard's Lilliputians at the Theatre Royal last evening. This work of Arnold's is one of the best comic operas ever written: bright and fanciful in its plot and lyrics and full of tuneful music. In England it is only rarely one has an opportunity now of seeing it produced, but those who have seen and heard it cannot fail to be desirous of renewing acquaintance with this charming piece. La Mascoite and La Cigale were names to conjure with twenty years ago, nor do these operas of Arnold's suffer in comparison with the comic operas which have held the stage of later years. Those who attended the Theatre last evening had a treat provided for them and they were not lukewarm in their reception of La Mascoite and its youthful exponents. The opera is laid in Italy and the rise of the curtain discovers a farm scene with peasants celebrating the vintage festival. Rocco the farmer sits apart brooding over his ill-luck. Then comes word that his brother is sending to him his turkey-keeper Bettina who is a mascoite or heart-angel and will bring good-luck. Bettina arrives but gets a cold reception and is told to return home. When she is on the point of doing so Prince Lorenzo with Prince Fretellini and his Court party come on the scene, and Lorenzo hearing of La Mascoite's peculiar virtues resolves to take her to his Court. So they depart. Amid all the gaieties of Court life Bettina pines for her old peasant days and her old lover Pippo the shepherd. Pippo follows his lost love to the Palace in the guise of a strolling player and after the many vicissitudes to be expected in comic opera they meet, explain away illusions, go to the wars together (Bettina in disguise) and on the third act the curtain finally falls to the merry strains of a Wedding March.

Regarding the representation which La Mascoite got from the Lilliputians, it is not too much to say that it ranks as one of their best efforts during their recent visits to the Colony. It was in 1897 that they last produced Arnold's lively opera. Recollections of its charms still linger in the memories of those who witnessed its presentation then and those also who were present last evening will not soon forget the pleasure it afforded them. Miss Alice Pollard acted and sang with all her accustomed acceptance in the rôle of Bettina the Mascoite, and Miss Ivy Trott shared honours with her in the part of Pippo, her sweetheart. Miss Ivy Trott made the first hit in the rôle of "The Legend of the Mascoite," Miss Alice Pollard was very successful in the "Dram Song," while both appeared to great advantage in the "Glor-Glor" duet and the march and duet "Why Dost Thou Linger?" Miss Irene Finlay made an excellent appearance as Fiametta and sang "The Most Attractive Girl" in a manner that gained her hearty applause. In the character of Lorenzo, the never-failing Jack Pollard was as bright and amusing as ever, and his song "Wise Folks Are Always Noted" took well. Miss Daphne Pollard was consistently clever as Fritellini, and the other parts were filled in a manner leaving nothing to be desired. Among the most notable efforts of the evening were the "Peculiar Ballet" in the first act, the "Saltarello" in the second, and the choros "Yonder in the Holly Wood" and the Wedding March finale in the third. The unstinted way in which the audience bestowed the tokens of their approbation was a testimony to the abilities of the little actors and singers.

Appended is the full cast:—
Bettina the Mascoite..... Miss Alice Pollard
Fiametta, daughter of Lorenzo XVII, friend Finlay
Lorenzo XVII, Prince of Fiametta, Jack Pollard
Rocco, a Farmer..... Willie Thomas

SUPREME COURT.

Thursday, 16th April.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR A. G. WISE (PUNISH JUDGE).

SEQUEL TO A COLLISION.

On the 11th of March last Lo Kam Loy brought an action against the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd., for $259.35 in respect of damages caused to his cargo-boat, No. 791, in a collision with the Dock Co.'s tug-boat Fame in the Harbour on 19th December. The cargo-boat was at the time in tow of a steam-launch of which the master was Cheung Sing, 7, Salt Fish Lane, and was proceeding from the Canton steamer wharf to the Empress. The Fame was going from east to west and in attempting to pass under the stern of the tug and tow she struck the cargo-boat in the stern and caused damage to the extent claimed. Judgment in the suit was given for the defendant, his Lordship holding that on the evidence the Fame was not to blame.

Lo Kam Loy now brought an action for damages against the master of the launch which had his boat in tow for the sum named above. Mr. E. J. Grist of Messrs. Wilkinson & Grist, solicitors, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. John Hays of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes & Master, solicitors, was for the defence.

Mr. Grist, in opening the case for the plaintiff, said that on the day in question plaintiff's cargo-boat was being towed by defendant's steam launch from the Canton steamer wharf to the Empress when the cargo-boat collided with the tug-boat Fame. Plaintiff contended that had the steam launch kept her course there would have been no collision. She backed her engines at the last moment and took her way off, so that the Fame which was going astern could not get astern and struck the cargo-boat aft. He had summoned a number of witnesses in this case, but for some reason or other they had not appeared.

His Lordship—Ate the launch people appearing?

Mr. Grist—They are appearing.
His Lordship—Then I am afraid you are in an awkward hole. But I will give you every opportunity, because you remember I made the remark on that occasion that I came to the decision with very great regret and that if there had been any evidence on the other side I would have given it full consideration, but there was none.

Mr. Grist—It will be very hard if my client cannot get something out of somebody. The position taken up by the defendant was an altogether unwarrantable one. He was asked to produce his witnesses in the first case and support us against the Dock Company but they never appeared.

Mr. Hays—They were subpoenaed.
Mr. Grist—They could not have been, because I tried to get the people on the boat and they were purposely sent away.

Mr. Hays—You have to prove that.

Mr. Grist—I can prove it.

His Lordship—If there is any trouble about subpoenaing, I shall issue a warrant for the captain.

Lo Kam Loy, master of cargo-boat No. 791, said his boat was being towed by defendant's launch from opposite the Canton steamer wharf to the Empress. The boat was lashed to the starboard side of the launch. He was giving no directions as to the course to be pursued by the launch; that was left entirely to the master of the launch. On the way the Fame collided with his cargo-boat. He saw the Fame when she was far off, going from east to west; she tried to pass on the stern of his boat. He did not know whether or not the launch did anything to avoid collision; she blew two blasts on her whistle, but he did not know what that meant.

Captain S. McEneaney, who was master of the Fame at the time of the collision, said she was steering near the centre of the fairway coming from east to west. He was on the launch's starboard bow. When about 50 yards off the launch blew two blasts on her whistle, indicating that she was starboarding her helm and going to port. But instead of doing so she reversed her engines and went astern with the result that a collision took place. Had she kept on her course there would have been no collision. To avoid collision he went full-speed astern.

The Chinese steersman of the Fame gave corroborative evidence.

The case for the defendant launch was that she gave only one blast on her whistle when approaching the Fame, and was trying to allow the Fame to pass across her bows accordingly, when the collision occurred.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs, and referred the question of damages to the Registrar. He was glad that this case had come on as he now said that his judgment in the first case was perfectly right and that the doubts he entertained at that time were unfounded. The defendant launch took the wrong manoeuvre altogether and was to blame.

The Court adjourned.

STEAMER ASHORE AT CHEFOO.

A telegram to the Shanghai Mercury, dated Chefoo, April 14th, states that "the British steamer Victoria is ashore on Little Bamboo Island, with her holds full of water. The chief officer has arrived here in the lifeboat. Lloyd's agents, here, Messrs. Curtis, Broe, are endeavouring to procure assistance for her." This is probably the British steamer Victoria, 1,500 tons, Captain Casey, which has been running between Hongkong and the northern ports.

REVIEWS.

Historic Macao. By C. A. MONTALTO DE JESUS. Hongkong, Kelly & Walsh, Ltd.

In a volume of some 350 pages the author has produced a valuable historical work, dealing with the birth, relations, rise, progress and decadence of the charming little Portuguese colony which is situated within a few miles of Hongkong. The subject has an especial interest from the student's point of view, because Macao is the oldest foreign settlement in the Far East, and flourished as a port of commerce as far back as the 16th century. It was the port from whence the sturdy, adventurous Portuguese mariners brought their wonderful little galleons, heavily-laden with spices, silks and valuables through the China Sea, Indian Ocean and round the Cape to Lisbon and Venice, there to offer candles to their patron saints for a safe return and for escapes from Dutch or English privateers. As a port of commerce Macao then outvalued many progressive Eastern ports of to-day. It was prosperous before the friars from Mexico founded Manila, which ultimately became a rival. The business man who visits Macao for a holiday and passes along its quaint, dead, old streets, and surveys the deserted houses of other days, will be surprised to learn that hundreds of years ago this same quiet sequestered colony imported from Japan no less than three million pounds in gold annually. He who is curious as to the origin of the present natives of Macao may be interested to know that their forefathers for centuries administered the little colony, resisted Chinese aggression, capitalising only in the presence of famine, and stoutly beat off Dutch privateers which harassed them periodically. The author in the volume before us correctly points out, that the "procreation of a mixed but legitimate and Christian race" was a characteristic feature of the Portuguese colonisation introduced by Albuquerque and sanctioned by the Catholic clergy. The Macanese, or natives of Macao, owe their origin to the Portuguese pioneers intermarrying with Malay, Japanese and Chinese women. The Macanese patois bears testimony to the Malayan element introduced from Malacca, which place was originally an important Portuguese settlement. The Macanese have an honourable record, for when Portugal was overrun by the Spanish and her colonies fell before rising and aggressive Powers, Macao still maintained its independence and for a period the Portuguese flag had there alone a solitary existence. After reading Mr. Jesus's book the reader cannot fail to admire the stoicism, the patient and wise administration of the Macanese, who after all were very helpless. Those interested in missionary work may well consider the brilliant and honourable record of Christian propaganda in this old colony. Hundreds of years before Protestantism came to China, Macao was the base of Christian missionary work in the far Orient. Its influence was repeatedly felt at Peking. Sometimes militant, often subtle with damaging political motives, periodically ruggedly enthusiastic as the waves of monastic life and rule which affected Europe reached the Orient, the little outpost bore testimony to Occidental morality and philosophy. Of the various orders the Jesuits appear to have been the most influential and vigorous. The old ruins of St. Paul's, with its still beautiful but neglected facade, bear testimony to Jesuit art imparted to Japanese converts, and the inscription on the foundation-stone is dated 1602. From the Jesuit seminary of St. Paul missionaries went forth to China, Japan, Tonkin and Cochinchina. It was in this building that the Japanese nobles who went on an embassy to Pope Gregory XIII in 1590 wrote and published an account of their mission and travels in Japanese, with a Latin translation produced by a Jesuit father. This is but forty years later than the first recorded book printed in Ireland, and only dated at the early part of the same century. The Jesuits were expelled in 1763. The first episcopal see was founded in Macao in 1575 by Pope Gregory XIII. The ancient society of charity, which is now responsible for the local lottery, namely the Santa Casa de Misericordia, was established there by a bishop, in the remote past, the society being a conspicuous institution in every Portuguese city, and was instituted in 1498 by the Queen of Portugal. The Dutch made their first appearance off Macao in 1601, and were followed twenty-two years later by the English. The book is full of interesting matter and the author has been very painstaking in regard to his authorities. In the concluding portion dealing with the modern history of the colony, we may not see eye to eye with him in his deductions or entirely accept his criticism, though we will sympathise with him in hopes for the future. His work has, on the whole, been well and carefully done, and the book is worthy of a permanent place in the library of Far Eastern literature. The volume is well illustrated with colotype engravings, which materially add to its value.

Marty: A Novel. By JOHN STRANGE WINTER. London, George Bell & Sons.

Words of fiction continue to flow from Mrs. Stannard's pen in a manner suggestive of the brook that goes on for ever. The author's voluminous writings of late years have by no means maintained the uniform standard of excellence which one was led to at least hope for if not wholly expect, taking her most famous first work as a criterion. Yet among the chaff there have been golden grains of wheat that saved the situation and the writer's name. Is there indeed one of all our well-known popular novelists who can be said to be free of that literary offence called vulgarly, pot-boiling? Well, generalisation is a risky matter; but we venture to think that it would be difficult to find one of all these courageous enough to cast the first stone. On the other hand, the public clamours like Oliver Twist for more of its favourite author's writings. Publishers are pertinacious in their calls upon the writer's capacity, and back them up by big cheques, so it is little wonder therefore that some modern novelists sacrifice their reputations to their bank accounts and allow to go forth to the public books hastily conceived and often ill executed, jejune or juvenile as the case may be. It is not difficult to imagine some of these authors regretting like Macaulay, and with far more cause, that certain of their works had ever seen the light of day. In this latest novel by John Strange Winter, there are apparent few of the deficiencies just hinted at. It is a simple, though powerful story of London life. Marty is a metropolitan type but no less a personality, and the tale of which she forms the central figure is entrancing for all its domestic environment and placidity of plot. Marty marries above her social rank and a strange complication of events evolves that holds the reader's attention till the close. Marty is a novel well worth buying.

Street's Newspaper Directory for Great Britain and Ireland, the Colonies, India, etc. for 1903 has just reached us. The high position held by this old firm of Serle Street, 30, Cornhill, and 164, Finsbury, London, is a guarantee that anything done by them is well done. The book is well arranged, well indexed, and well printed. It gives condensed particulars of the population, trade, etc., of every town in the kingdom at which newspapers are published.

TREATMENT OF A RUSSIAN SPY.

WHAT HAPPENED TO TWO ENGLISHMEN AT PORT ARTHUR.

Under the above headlines the following letter appears in the Daily Graphic:—

Sir,—A few days ago you published an account of the arrest and subsequent release of a Russian spy, a naval engineer, at Aden. In view of the magnanimous conduct of the British officials to this individual the following incident might be of interest.

With a friend I arrived at Port Arthur by land from Peking, and, unaware that photography was forbidden, took a number of snapshots of this interesting place—sometimes, I remember, under the noses of soldiers or police. Although this was done quite openly, it was not until the third day of our stay that anything untoward occurred. Sitting on the summit of a commanding hill, watching a destroyer at her speed trials outside the heads, we were suddenly arrested on a charge of espionage, and, escorted by a Cossack, were taken direct to the prison. We were searched, and everything but our clothes removed, and subjected to a two hours' cross-examination in German—this being the only tongue with which both sides were familiar.

Our case was then placed before the Chief, and an order was shortly sent to throw us into prison with some fifty or sixty Chinese who were awaiting execution for dacoity and murder.

This is the only prison in Port Arthur. The order would most certainly have been carried out but for a fortunate disagreement between the civil and military authorities as to who should take the responsibility of its execution. Eventually after much discussion we were made to give our written parole, and a sergeant and Cossack accompanied us to our hotel, there searched all our baggage, taking all papers and plates they could lay their hands on. The hotel keeper was bound over to see that our luggage was not removed, and a Cossack guard at both the back and front of the establishment kept watch over our personal movements.

We had secured berths on a Japanese steamer to leave that evening for Choboo and Choshimpo (Corea), but this fact had no effect on our accusers. We lost our passages and remained under close arrest. Two days later we were warned at 7 a.m. that a special Court composed of naval officers would be convened to try us, and at 5 p.m. we were summoned to the Court-house. Arrived there, the cross-examination began, but this time we had secured the services of an interpreter, a young Anglo-Russian student, who had been exiled for a political "affaire" at St. Petersburg.

After a long palaver we were told that they were convinced of our innocence, yet were forced to adjourn the Court, as they had only been given power to punish us, not to acquit us.

The next morning at 9.30 a young officer called and told us we were to get out of the country as speedily as we could, as, although they had been discussing our case all night, no decision had been arrived at. Our papers were all returned and also my plates—open, and therefore useless. They had ruthlessly torn open a large number of letters of introduction to influential people in Japan, the United States, and Mexico, and made no apology for their rough treatment of our other effects. Our passports, which Sir Zinest Salow had himself informed us were sufficient to ensure us respect throughout Manchuria, were ignored and seized, and we were called upon to pay even the cost of the dresses in which the police escorted us to and from prison and court-house.

Our only reason for jubilation is that by some unaccountable oversight the plates they destroyed had never been exposed, while those I took of Port Arthur turned out excellently.

As a result of our treatment, we were obliged to abandon our journey through Corea, for I contracted a dangerous illness, from which, but for skilled medical treatment in Japan, I might never have recovered. I think, therefore, the British treatment of an obvious spy contrasts very favourably with the way in which we, mere travellers, were treated under the Russian flag.—Yours faithfully,

ALAN H. BURGESS, F.R.G.S.
Poullett Lodge, Twickenham.

LATE TELEGRAMS.

THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENCE.

London, 28th March.

On resumption of the debate, mentioned on the 25th March regarding the new Council of National Defence, Lord Ripon said it was impossible to conceive a military system less suited to the possible needs of India than Mr. Brodrick's, which was a heavy burden on the country. In view of the vast expenditure in respect of India, the Council of Defence should include the Secretary for India and his principal military officers.

Lord Hardwicke, defending the system, declared that in a very few months it would be possible to send three Army Corps abroad, perfectly equipped. His Lordship added, with reference to keeping corps in South Africa, that it would be necessary to keep such corps on war strength, involving other expensive arrangements, or to treat South Africa as a home station. With reference to this alternative he emphasised the views already expressed by Lord Lansdowne.

Earl Spencer argued that the establishment of the Council of Defence would diminish Ministerial responsibility.

The Duke of Devonshire said he accepted the resolution without reserve, while criticising some of Lord Rosebery's statements. The resolution was adopted.

THE TRAINING OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

London, 30th March.

The Admiralty has issued a Circular regarding the changes in the existing system of training officers and men in the Navy. The Circular is a complement to the main scheme, which was published at Christmas. One feature is the promotion of Warrant Officers to Lieutenants, but not higher.

EXPECTED MILL STRIKE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

London, 30th March.

Cotton mills employing 1,700 hands in Massachusetts cease work to-day in anticipation of a strike for an increase of wages. The managers say they cannot grant the increase and compete successfully in domestic and foreign markets.

TELEGRAPH CONNECTION BETWEEN CEYLON AND THE COCOS.

London, 30th March.

Lord George Hamilton is communicating with the Treasury on the expediency of telegraph connection between Ceylon and the Cocos Islands.

INDIA'S CUSTOMS DUTIES.

London, 30th March.

Lord George Hamilton (in reply to a question in the House) said that he cannot hold out hopes at present of reducing the customs duties in India. The Government of India has remitted taxation, he added, as far as is thought prudent.

PAINTING RANGOON BED.

Rangoon, 31st March.

Last Saturday night a party of British officers of the local garrison, after dining at the principal hotel, became so obnoxious that they were asked to quit the premises. They entered another hotel, and their conduct became so objectionable inside and outside the premises that the police had to investigate the case upon reports made by aggrieved parties. The military authorities have the matter in hand.

EXPERIMENTS WITH QUICK-FIRERS.

London, 31st March.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Brodrick said experiments are proceeding with a variety of quick-firers for field service. He believed it would shortly be possible to begin the construction of quick-firers superior to anything we at present possessed. The importance of identical calibre in heavy guns in India was fully recognised as, when the guns were replaced, every effort was made to assimilate them.

THE ABOLITION OF THE LANCE.

London, 31st March.

Lord Stanley, answering speeches with reference to the abolition of the lance, read a letter from Sir Ian Hamilton dwelling on the disadvantages of the lance in the Boer war, saying that, while it might be useful in India, where it might be necessary to encounter swordsmen, in modern warfare the lance was a great disadvantage, for it is only possible to bring less than half a Lance regiment into the firing line. Moreover lances revealed the position of troops.

Lord Stanley added that the abolition of the lance was supported by Lord Roberts who, above all, was qualified to know the requirements of the Indian service.

THE PURCHASE OF THE BARODA RAILWAY.

London, 31st March.

Replying to a deputation from the Baroda Railway on the subject of the terms whereby Government might acquire the Company's property, Lord George Hamilton said Government will interpret all such contracts in a broad equitable spirit, with no desire to drive an unfair bargain or in any way to depreciate the value of a guaranteed railway which they might acquire.

ARMY AND NAVY EXPENDITURE IN FRANCE.

THE LATE SIR HECTOR MACDONALD.

Calcutta, 1st April.

The London correspondent of the Indian Daily News, telegraphing on the 30th March, states that Sir Hector MacDonald's coffin was enclosed in a common deal packing-case, and was conveyed to the goods station in Paris in a parcel-delivery van, without ceremony. On arrival at London Bridge it was placed in a railway parcel-van and was driven to King's Cross, where it was deposited in the luggage brake-van. This treatment has greatly incensed the public.

GREAT KEROSENE BLAZE ON THE BANKS OF THE HUGHLY.

Calcutta, 1st April.

A great fire occurred yesterday evening at a kerosene oil depot at Budge-Budge, down the Hughly river. The fire is in a shed used for storing kerosene oil cases; and its proximity to three other sheds, all stored with oil, and to Messrs. Graham & Co.'s bulk oil installation, and to the Budge-Budge jute mill, is causing intense anxiety.

The shed contained 377,000 cases and 44,000 tins of kerosene oil, which are all ablaze.

Calcutta, 2nd April.

The great oil blaze at Budge-Budge continued all yesterday. The latest news states that all danger to the adjoining sheds is now over. The shed in which the fire is burning has fallen in. There is no possibility of saving its contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated at 15 to 20 lakhs of rupees. The shed burnt contained 392,000 cases and 43,940 tins of oil, owned by the following:—Messrs. Graham & Co. 207,921 cases and 38,924 tins; the Standard Oil Co. 184,037 cases; J. Manton's 8,220 tins; and the Aracan Co. 132 cases. All were fully insured. The Salamander Fire Insurance Co. stands to lose eleven lakhs of rupees. The price of kerosene oil in Calcutta have risen rapidly. The fire was still burning late last night.

HOLYROOD PALACE.

DETAILS OF THE INTER-VARSITY BOAT-RACE.

Allahabad, 2nd April.

The London correspondent of the Pioneer, telegraphing regarding the boat-race, states that the manifest superiority of Cambridge, the fixing the race in the middle of the week, and a continuous drizzle during the morning, all conspired to lessen the attendance of spectators at the Riverside on Wednesday.

Oxford won the toss and chose the Surrey station, but there was little advantage in the choice, the breeze being from the south-west and the water smooth. Cambridge immediately took the lead, rowing at 37 strokes to the minute against Oxford's 36. The Light Blues had drawn clear at the end of the first mile; and their lead had been increased to 24 lengths by Hammermill Bridge. From this point they continued to draw away, passing Barnes Bridge 54 lengths ahead, and finishing the easiest of winners by 6 lengths in 20 minutes 33 seconds. Oxford maintained excellent form throughout; but had no chance against the superior style and strength of their opponents.

[The time last year was 19 minutes 9 seconds; and the record time is 13 minutes 47 seconds—made once by each University.]

CUSTOMS CHANGES.

The Shanghai Mercury learns that several important changes have been announced in the chief ranks of the Imperial Maritime Customs. Mr. R. E. Bredon, Deputy Inspector-General, has been ordered to proceed to the Osaka Exhibition, in connection with the visit to be made by members of the Chinese Imperial Family, and it is expected that he will also be delegated to the same duties in connection with the St. Louis Purchase Exposition. For the present his duties will be undertaken by Mr. H. E. Hobson in addition to those of Commissioner at Shanghai.

Mr. F. E. Taylor, Statistical Secretary, has been detached to act as an assistant Commissioner for Treaty Revision on behalf of China, and his duties as Statistical Secretary will be undertaken by Mr. F. A. Carl, of Chefoo. As it is expected that Mr. Taylor will take his leave on the conclusion of the Treaty negotiations, this change may become permanent. Mr. Smollet Campbell, now in Swatow, will replace Mr. Carl at Chefoo.

Mr. F. A. Aglon, now Commissioner at Nanking, has been appointed Chief Secretary to the Inspector-General at Peking, Mr. H. M. Hillier replacing him at Nanking. As the post of Chief Secretary has been left vacant for some time, this appointment has given rise to considerable speculation on political grounds, as it is known that efforts have been made to have other Commissioners appointed to the post. As the position gives an opportunity of learning the routine of Sir Robert Hart's duties, it is regarded in this instance as bearing some resemblance to the appointment of an understudy, and as Mr. Aglon is thought to be a strong adherent to the British control of the Chinese Customs, in opposition to the mooted international control, his appointment is regarded as significant.

Mr. J. F. Schoenicks goes as Commissioner to Wenchow, and Mr. J. Neuman goes to Mengzi.

UNDER-LOADED SHIPS.

A Select Committee of the House of Lords is enquiring into the light load-line. Mr. W. J. Howell, one of the assistant secretaries of the Board of Trade and chief of the Marine Department, in giving evidence expressed the view that the present powers of the Board of Trade were ample. If a British ship were believed to be unsafe, they might order her to be provisionally detained for a survey to be made. If the survey showed her to be unsafe the Board might order her absolute detention, or until the necessary alterations were undertaken. Moreover, a heavy penalty attached to the working of a ship in a condition dangerous to life. In the way of cautions and instructions much had been done by the Board of Trade in regard to improper ballasting, but there had been no case of actual detention or prosecution. The Board of Trade thought that a compulsory light load-line was unnecessary. Ten sailing vessels and five steamers lost during the last eleven years were found by courts of enquiry to be insufficiently ballasted, being an average of less than two years. Many shipmasters were opposed to a light load-line, especially those at present in employment.

Lord Muskerry: You have just hit it.

The Marquis of Graham, a certificated master, and an associate of the Institute of Naval Architects, said a light load-line would assist the Board of Trade surveyor in determining whether a vessel was sufficiently ballasted or not.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

NEW DUST FIGURES—WHITE LIGHT FOR THE "DARK" ROOM—A PROMISING HEATER—AN IMITATION RIVER—A FAST-GROWING FISH—THE BEST FOODS—THE SECRET OF MAGIC MIRRORS—VARIETIES OF BECQUEL RAYS—ELECTRIC BILLIARDS.

Curious figures are obtained by Dr. W. J. Russell when magnesia dust or other fine powder is sprinkled over a plate of glass, copper, alabaster, cardboard or other material, the plate being about 12 deg. C. warmer than the air. The heat results are obtained when the dust gently settles over the plate during cooling. The figures vary with the shape of the plate, usually showing radiations from the angles, and they are affected also by any neighbouring object, such as an upright pin at the edge of the plate, or a piece of glass over it. After a week or a fortnight the dust figures become so adherent that they can be brushed gently without injury.

Non-actinic white light, first made known by a French photographer some years ago, is produced by filtering sunlight through a colourless solution of three parts of nickel chloride and one part of cobalt chloride, ultra-violet rays being absorbed by coating the containing vessel with collodion mixed with sulphate of guanine slightly acidulated with sulphuric acid. Sensitive paper has been exposed to this filtered white light for a week without change.

The electric radiator of E. G. Rivers has a layer of finely powdered retort carbon held between enamelled iron plates and kept in position by asbestos cardboard. A copper strip is led in at the centre, with another at each end, and a continuous current is passed from the centre strip to the outer two. A current of eight amperes at 200 volts keeps a heating surface of 25 square feet at an average temperature of 19 deg. F.

An experienced rifleman has noticed that the position of a target appears to change from hour to hour during the day. In a range extending to the north, the aim and sight-correction that will hit the bull's-eye at noon will hit to the left and above in the morning and to the right and below in the afternoon.

A Laboratory of River Hydraulics, with an artificial river for studying the work of streams, is a novel feature of the Technical Institute of Carlsruhe. The "river" is a tank, with suitable inlet and outlet, and a simple mechanism for varying the inclination. When the effect of the current in any channel is to be investigated, a careful survey of a portion of the real river is first made. Then the tank is given the proper slope, and the natural conditions are reproduced on a small scale, little bags of shot being used to consolidate the sand of the banks and to represent either the stones of a faced embankment or the boulders of a gravelly soil. The bottom is covered with 2 1/2 inches of sand. In order that only the stage of flow desired may produce any effect upon the bed, the tank is provided with means for carefully filling before the outlet is opened, and for emptying very slowly at the end of the experiment.

The Turian idea of introducing electricity into billiards is ingenious at least. In the centre of the table is placed a plate of some easily electrified substance, and the balls are of compressed pitch, the one being tipped with chemically-prepared cork. The balls being influenced by the electrified plate, caissons are difficult. The player finds exercise for greater skill than ever, it is claimed, and the new difficulties add zest to the game.

Observations on the growth of fishes are sought by returning to the water healthy specimens that have been weighed and tagged. Among the fishes taken in English waters last year were a sea trout that had increased from 5 pounds to 6 in one year, a salmon that had risen from 13 pounds to 21 in eighteen months, and a male salmon whose weight seems to have shown an extraordinary and astonishing growth from 19 to 33 pounds in thirty days.

The salinity of the ocean varies greatly in different localities. Recent investigations have shown that the surface of the Atlantic has two large areas that are very salt, one north and one south of the equator, but that only one comparatively small salt area south of the equator, is to be found in the Pacific.

For nutriment and digestibility combined, the herring is placed at the head of all animal foods by Prof. MacFadyen, a London Royal Institution lecturer. The herring is one of the most digestible of all animal foods, ranking with the cod as a lean fish, and being much more easily taken care of by the stomach than the fatter salmon, mackerel and eel. Lean beef is nearly as digestible as fish, much more so than fatty mutton. The food value of beef-teen and of oysters has been greatly over-rated, and fish has no extra importance for brain-workers on account of its phosphorus, as there is no experimental evidence to show that it contains more phosphorus than other animal food. First among the vegetable foods are placed the pea, the bean and the lentil, the last-named being among the most ancient forms of food.

A perplexing mystery of a few years ago was the curious property of Japanese magic mirrors, which, as is well known, reflect upon a screen the designs engraved upon their backs, although the polished reflecting faces are quite plane and free from any visible figures. It is now pretty well proven that the peculiarity is due to unequal resistance to flexure during the polishing process. A late experimenter, Thomas Thorp, has reproduced one of these mirrors in bell-metal, using—with much prescience—ordinary methods of grinding and polishing instead of the Japanese method of scraping with pressure, and the reproduction is an improvement upon the original. Another mirror, made with care to avoid flexure, was quite free from the magic property.

The rays emitted by the radio-active metals are found by Becquerel to be of more than one kind. Those from uranium, which are of one kind only, are charged with negative electricity, and have high penetrative power; those from polonium are charged with positive electricity, and are easily absorbed; and those from thorium and radium are of both kinds.

Medical authority has regarded suicide by holding the breath as impossible, but a late Liverpool suicide seems to have accomplished the feat.

UNCLAIMED TREASURES.

There is no lack of treasures in the world; the trouble is that they are all claimed; or if indeed there be any unclaimed (and surely there must be some such), they are so difficult to find that for the rank and file of mankind they might as well be among the claimed treasures, or not exist at all. That was a delightful complaint which Charles Reade paid to old maids when he called them unclaimed treasures. Because, a thing is unclaimed or rejected by no means implies its worthlessness. A goodly proportion of the masterpieces of literature have been rejected by publishers. Thackeray's incomparable Family Reunion among the number. The only positive proof of anything being a treasure is its having stood the time test. For thousands of years, gold has everywhere been regarded as valuable, and people never seemed less inclined to go back on that opinion than they do to-day. For thirty-four years Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup has been the most popular medicine. Not a year passes without a large extension of its sales, nor a day without voluntary testimony as to its power for good. It is a treasure, but by no means an unclaimed one. On the contrary, it is claimed as the family medicine in six hundred thousand (600,000) British homes. There is no matter for wonder in these figures, great as they are when the benefit which it confers is more often than not fully as great as that described in the following legally sworn declaration:—

"I, John Boddy Mintoft, of Nunnington, in the county of Yorkshire, do solemnly and sincerely declare as follows:—

"That in spite of skilled medical aid I was for many years a martyr to indigestion and a strangely disordered stomach, and that had it not been for Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup I doubt whether I should be alive to-day. For a year or two before I broke down I never knew what it was to have a day's good health. I was always ailing. The least exertion tired me, and I felt drowsy, despondent, and miserable. Ordinarily, I had a very good appetite, but just then my food began to disagree with me, and I felt uncomfortable after it. There was a fullness and distension of the stomach that seemed to affect the heart. My breath was very short. Finally, a pain settled in the chest and under the left shoulder. I ought to have attended to it at once; but unfortunately neglected to do so, consequently the disease developed. I had always an unpleasant taste in the mouth, and my tongue was dry and parched. My appetite, hitherto good, was now very poor, and after forcing myself to eat I often had violent pains in the stomach, and used to break out into cold perspiration, feeling so chilled that I shivered from head to foot. My condition becoming so serious, I consulted a doctor; but in spite of all he did for me I grew worse, and at the end of six weeks was advised to go into a hospital at York. There I was treated with great kindness, but I think my case must have puzzled the doctors for, after detaining me eleven weeks, they sent me away un cured. Then began the most painful period of my illness. When I got home my mother was shocked at my appearance. She has since said that she believed I had come home to die. I was troubled with obstinate constipation, my sleep was broken, and when I lay awake it seemed as if the bed were sinking under me. Night sweats robbed me of the little strength I had left, and I was soon so weak that I could scarcely walk across the room. To go up-stairs, I had to crawl on my hands and knees, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that I got down to the sofa again next day. Thus I was for three years a confirmed invalid. Meanwhile, I had seen specialists whose treatment seemed to do me no good at all; but in the end I found myself as bad as ever. Almost in despair, and as a last resource I tried Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup. Ah, if only I had tried it before! I began to mend as soon as I had taken half of the first bottle. My appetite improved, slightly it is true, but what I ate agreed with me. The night sweats ceased, and gradually strength returned, so that by the aid of a walking stick I could get about. My convalescence was a long one, but by persevering with the Syrup, all the bad symptoms left me, and I was able to resume my work again. My present employment is a very anxious one, compelling me to expose myself to all kinds of weather; still, I feel none the worse for it. Believing that it may benefit some other sufferer, I regard it as my duty to make these facts known. And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true. By virtue of the Statutory Declaration Act of 1835 (William IV. c. 63), Declared at Malton, in the county of Yorkshire, the 9th of May, 1902, by John Boddy Mintoft, before Arthur L. C. Russell, a Commissioner for Oaths."
